Diversity, Equity and Inclusion must become embedded in everything we do as manufacturers, from managing work flow on a daily basis to staff hiring and professional development. It must be a foundational premise in every aspect of our company as we drive technology for the future of our industry. It is in our own enlightened self-interest as business leaders that we identify and fully develop available talent to remain competitive in a global marketplace. We must begin by understanding the importance of equity, diversity and inclusion, and celebrate it in our workplaces."
